

ABSTRACT

A moving toy includes: a plurality of control coils; a control device to control conduction to the plurality of control coils; and a moving body provided with a magnet, the moving body being operated through the control of the conduction.